Let It Snow!

It’s winter! That means it’s time for snow in many parts of the world. Think about going outside after a snowstorm. Describe snow to someone who has never seen snow.

I don’t mean to “bug” you, but you might:

- think about your feelings about something you have never experienced -- for example, a tornado or a hot-air balloon ride.
- use your senses -- hearing, sight, smell, taste, and touch -- to describe snow.
- use words to paint a vivid picture.
