

Write Your Own Description

One of Gwendolyn Brooks's poems is titled "Skipper." In it she tells what she sees one day when she looks into her fish bowl. In the space at the top of the fish bowl draw the water life and objects of your choice. On the lines provided, describe what people would see if they looked into your fish bowl. (You may continue on the back of this sheet.)

