Finish the Story

Write the ending to the story. Make sure that the ending of the story includes someone showing compassion.

When you get to school in the morning, you notice that there is a new student in your class. The student looks worried and scared and is just sitting at a desk. Your teacher introduces the student and explains that the student has just moved here from another country and asks the class to make the new student feel welcome.

_____

_____

_____

_____

_____

_____

_____

_____

_____

_____

_____

_____